

The democrats of New York will have up-hill business trying to elect their candidate for governor.

Why not fill Eaton's place, on the civil service commission with Higgins? He is just such a man as the democracy likes to tie to.

Queen Victoria's private fortune is reckoned at thirty million dollars, and yet the old lady is ambitious for more and lives very frugally.

Assistant Postmaster General Steven, son's health is remarkably good. He is able to put in office two hundred democratic partisans each day in the week Sunday's excepted.

New York subscribed seventeen dollars towards the Grant monument fund during the past week. Slowly climbing toward a million, and it may reach that sum by the time the judgment books unfold.

Wisconsin seems to have been represented in the cabinet on Thursday, as the following democratic postmasters were appointed: Watoma, George H. Walker; West Bend, Joseph Ott; Colby, Samuel J. Shafer; Star Prairie, Ole Lake; Waterloo, Emilie Janisch; Cataract, John T. Scantillon; East Middleton, Mary Astell; Monroeville, Louis Kerkes; Wesley, John Macleod; Chasaberg, Thomas Parkin; Lavallo, William Rathbun.

Five years ago Mrs. Julia Smith, of Connecticut, married the second time at the age of 55. A good many thought she was foolish to marry at that age, but now she remarks that the past five years have been among the very happiest of her life. Mrs. Smith made herself famous some years ago for refusing to pay government taxes because she was not permitted to vote. But the government beat her.

Every sincere republican will commend President Cleveland for one thing—that of ordering the suspension of Sterling, of Brooklyn. Now if the President desires still further to commend himself to good citizens in this matter, let him follow up the suspension of Sterling with the suspension of Hadden. For certainly if Sterling is a candidate for removal, much more is Hadden, who turned out the unrepentant Captain Bacon, ought to be marked for that fate. If the President is thoroughly in earnest he will not let off the branch, Sterling, and leave the root, Hadden, undisturbed. Neither will he permit Dan Manning to be the chief boss of the lowest politics in New York.

Governor Hill, of New York, has been nominated for another term by the democrats. This was expected. Mr. Hill was the candidate of the machine bosses of New York city. Manning was for him. Robert O. Thompson was for him. Hadden was for him. Battie was for him. The president was for him. So he was nominated. But judging from the temper of the New York people, Mr. Hill can not get there. Unless the independents suit themselves they can not give him their support. He is not in sympathy with any sort of political reform any more than Hadden is, and therefore can no command the votes of the independents.

In Janesville a recount of votes shows that $500 license prevails in that city. That the largest city in the state finds the license at $500, and Beloit comes next to it—Madison Democrat.

The democrats are in error in saying that a recount of the votes shows that $500 license prevails in Janesville. The votes have not been recounted, and probably will not be. The clerks of the election made a mistake in footing up the returns. The vote for the minimum was placed in the column of the maximum, and vice versa, which apparently gave a majority for high license. This error in the returns will doubtless be corrected and the two hundred dollar license prevail.

Once a man by the name of Smith said, "It's a terrible thing to owe money, and to be compelled to dodge around this corner and that to avoid meeting a creditor on the street. It takes all the manhood out of one and he soon loses his self respect. I am glad to say that I no longer owe a dollar—not a dollar—and can face my former creditors like a man free from the consciousness of being in debt." Mr. Forz answered, "then those old debts that have bothered you so long are all squared up, are they?" "Yes, thank heaven," replied Smith with a countenance beaming with satisfaction, "the last one was outlawed yesterday." That seems to be the way the democrats have squared up its record. It considers all its misdeeds are outlawed, and that it can now face the country with the consciousness that its obligations and blunders have been honestly settled.

For an administration that regards public office as a public trust, matters in the Keystone state are in a bad way. In the city of Philadelphia and throughout the state of Pennsylvania the democratic party "as being prostituted to promote the political fortunes of those who have been entrusted with the distribution of federal patronage." The graveyards of democracy are ransacked for resurrection material, and these shrouded relics of a past age threaten to visit the displeasure of the national administration upon every democrat who refuses to follow their lead. "Stupid, selfish, vindictive and greedy policy governs appointments to federal office. If the same fatal auspices are permitted to prevail, the republican majority in the next presidential election will be twice $0,000." This lurid picture of distress is not painted by any offensive partisan of the republican communion, but by that stanch exponent of democracy and special organ of the administration, the Philadelphia Record.

The situation at Rock Creek, Wyo.

ing is not yet at all satisfactory. The Chinese miners are indeed protected, but there is nothing to indicate any serious movement toward the punishment of those who took part in the recent massacre. The Union Pacific railroad company has offered to transport any of the late strikers from the place, free, if they go at once. As there is apparently nothing to hinder them all from accepting this offer, the prospect of justice is poor. At the same time, news of anti-Chinese movements in Washington territory and Montana shows that the lesson of the Wyoming massacre is having its effect. If the United States government has not the power to protect Chinamen all over the country, or to bring to justice ruffians who massacre them, congress would do well to accept the national humiliation involved and pass a law excluding the race from American soil altogether. To permit them to come here, and then to let them be murdered, is a pitch of barbarism which even goes beyond the imaginings of a San Francisco sand-lotter.

THE SWORD PENDENT.

AND THE DOGS OF WAR HELD IN THE LEASH.

Bulgaria Going to Work in a Way That Means Business—Waiting for the Word—Royalty Delivered in London—Riot in Roussa.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The latest advice in regard to the insurrection in Roumania are of a more warlike nature. The national assembly of Bulgaria has unanimously approved Prince Alexander's action toward eastern Roumania, and has proclaimed the union of the two Bulgarias. The assembly has voted $3,000,000 pounds sterling for the purpose of maintaining and protecting the union. Active measures have been taken for placing the army on a fighting footing and for strengthening the frontier to resist an invasion.

The Bulgarian government has sent a circular to the powers stating that the muslimans in Roumania are forming into armed bands and threatening the peace of the country. The powers are therefore asked to intervene and compel the sultan to say categorically whether he refuses to accept or agree to the Bulgarian union. The government refuses to postpone the alarming of the muslimans beyond three days.

The Greek government has decided to convene the legislative assembly at once and call out the reserve forces of the army. The Bulgarian police are disarming subjects in order to prevent a rising on the Macedonian frontier. It is reported that the Turks have recovered from their defeat at Djakovro, and are again marching against the Albanians.

The funds of Salisbury has obtained a promise from the ports not to send Turkish troops into Roumania until all the signatory powers have been consulted as to the advisability of the adoption of such a course.

Money for Emergencies. VIENNA, Sept. 25.—Servia has $9,000,000 francs available for emergencies, and the Servian railways are negotiating with the Vienna banks for a loan of 1,500,000 francs, with which to augment their equipment for carrying troops and to extend their lines.

There Were No Bulgarian Troops. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—The Turks have occupied a small village near Mesapha Pasha in and on the frontier of eastern Roumania. No Bulgarian troops were in that vicinity.

Commented on Confor.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—A dispatch to The Standard from its Berlin correspondent says that Germany, France, Italy, Russia and Turkey have consented to participate in a conference.

AN OVATION TO CHAMBERLAIN.

The British Reform in the East End of London—Deriving the Royal Family. LONDON, Sept. 25.—The Chamberlain meeting, which took place Tuesday afternoon in Victoria hall, at the Newcut, in the east end of London, was a tremendous affair. Some thousands of people filled the vast hall, while 25,000 enthusiastic men, unable to obtain admission, were assembled in front and the vicinity of the building, cheering and commending the objects of the meeting. The utmost good humor prevailed, and the addresses of the speakers were received with unqualified applause. Mr. Chamberlain was twenty minutes in making his way through the crowd to the hall, amid the deafening cheers of the multitude. Speeches were made by Samuel Morley, Charles Bradlaugh and others, after which Chamberlain advanced to the front of the platform and endeavored to begin his speech, but he was fully ten minutes before the cheering subsided and he could hear the speaker's voice to be heard ten feet away. When at last he was able to proceed, Mr. Chamberlain delivered a ringing campaign speech, the main points of which had already been given in his previous speeches. His presentation of the issues was, however, somewhat modified to suit the character of his audience. The only new feature of importance was the speaker's vehement declaration that he would never join a cabinet which did not adopt the reforms incident to taxation for free elementary education and the acquisition of land by local authorities in order to create small tenancies.

The feature of the evening meeting was a speech by Dr. Newman Hall, whose fulsome references to the royal family were received with derisive laughter, bows and cat-calls, the uproar at each mention of the reigning family lasting fully five minutes.

Bloody Riot in Roussa. ROUSSA, Sept. 25.—A riot occurred in the Roussa dock-lands Thursday and for a time the mob held full sway. The rioters, who were employed in the yards, began the outbreak by bursting in the heads of several cases of wine and becoming intoxicated. The customs officials interfered, and the mob, armed with sticks, rushed upon them and beat them to death. Several police officers appeared upon the scene and endeavored to restore order. The rioters, many of whom were armed with revolvers, fired at the officers, and several of them fell. The others retreated, but were followed by the mob and wantonly shot down. Ultimately two battalions of infantry charged the crowd with fixed bayonets, killing several and wounding many. A large number of arrests were made.

Gordon as a Prophet. LONDON, Sept. 25.—It is now recalled that in March, 1880, Gen. Gordon privately circulated a memorandum on the eastern question, in which he set forth a view of the attitude of Turkey toward the powers, which has been confirmed by events, and may be still further verified by the results of the revolt of Roumania against Turkish domination. Gen. Gordon was certain, as he expressed himself in the memorandum, that Bulgaria and Roumania would ultimately unite.

Cleveland Labor Trouble. With an Embryo Riot—Frank's Disgrace on Cleveland—Revolution in Iowa—Novel Events.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 25.—The managers of the Cleveland rolling mill met Tuesday night and decided to raise the price of the workmen. As this is what the strikers have demanded it was supposed that the long strike would end at once. The announcement was first greeted by the strikers with cheers, but this demonstration was soon suppressed by the leaders, who passed around the word to "Stand out for country prices." As evening approached crowds gathered about the mills, and when the gates were opened the men who had been at work were bled and jeered. The workmen hurried to Broadway, where 400 to 500 more strikers assembled them. Thirty of the workmen boarded a car and the others scattered. The mob followed the car four or five blocks, when A. A. Housbury, a master mechanic, and Gustave Mohr, left in these were pursued and struck by twenty-five desperate characters, and Mohr was painfully hurt. In self-defense Housbury drew a revolver and fired over the heads of the mob. One of the strikers then fired twice at Housbury, who returned the compliment. Housbury and Mohr then ran to the former's home, pursued by the mob, who stoned the house.

A meeting of the strikers was held later, and it was decided to continue the strike, provided the company will agree to take back every striker. This move is made in the interest of their leaders, who have followed all claims to re-employment.

Cleveland May Resign Now. WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—A rather curious letter has been received by the President, called upon to resign by Gen. C. The writer signs himself "Henry M. Keep, president-elect of the United States, Phil, Dr. M. D., professor of military and civil jurisprudence, National Military home, Virginia." He addresses the president as "Cleveland," and says: "Your functions are no longer required. All acts made by you after Oct. 3 will be null and void."

He attaches to the letter a paper, numbered from 1 to 10, 170 to each of the cabinet officers, addressing each as "dear secretary." To Secretary Olney and the writer thanks for the faithful performance of his duty, but cautions him to "pay too much attention to these scribbling newspaper critics," and requests that the secretary will have no direct diplomatic intercourse with any British subject; that their Spanish or Russian allies, he would support Gen. Sling to resign, Sept. 10, and close with "Dieu et mon droit."

Wanted To Be with Her Husband. BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 25.—A Green Hill, a young wife who claimed main attire and came on here from New York a few weeks ago in search of a transient husband, was arraigned in the Hastings court Thursday, and pleaded guilty of house-breaking. She was convicted, and her punishment fixed at five years in the state prison. The crime, it is believed, was committed by the young woman for the sole purpose of being sent to jail to be with her husband, who was serving a term in that prison for some slight offense. Under these circumstances, it is believed the officers of the court will permit Governor Olney to commute her punishment to but 18 months confinement in jail.

Mrs. Hicks is but 18, quite intelligent, and has evidently traveled a good deal. She says she has followed her husband from Cuba here, he having, she says, committed the crime that she might get to him.

Calling Upon the Saints. MONTREAL, Sept. 25.—There were fifty-one deaths from smallpox in this city and its suburbs Wednesday.

A procession of Catholics headed at Colman St. Louis, a suburb, headed by the parish priest, calling upon St. Roch to protect them from the plague. The newspaper "Eclair," a clerical organ, commends the fact, that since the day of the procession not a single case of smallpox has been reported in the city. As a result there is talk here of a monster procession in this city to supplicate the saint, and it is even proposed to carry the image of the two recently deceased great saints, St. Roch and St. Anthony, through the streets in hope of staying the plague. Next Sunday 3,000 or 4,000 parishioners of St. James parish in this city will participate in the pilgrimage of the "way of the cross" through the streets to the Catholic cemetery. The authorities have been notified of the danger of such processions, but it is most improbable that they will dare to countermand it.

Awoke To Die in the Flames. CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Sept. 25.—Joseph Fisher and his three children were burned to death in a farm-house near "Waukegan," a small town in the northern part of this county. The house was made by Samuel Morley, Charles Bradlaugh and others, after which Chamberlain advanced to the front of the platform and endeavored to begin his speech, but he was fully ten minutes before the cheering subsided and he could hear the speaker's voice to be heard ten feet away. When at last he was able to proceed, Mr. Chamberlain delivered a ringing campaign speech, the main points of which had already been given in his previous speeches. The Crocker Brigade. IOWA CITY, Iowa, Sept. 25.—Thursday morning at 8 o'clock over 500 veterans of Crocker's brigade passed through the streets with the air and precision of veterans, each regiment preceded by its battle flag and led by its ranking officer. The business meeting was held at the opera house, and the conclusion of the parade, the old officers were re-elected. Gen. Bolman presided and Col. H. H. Root, of Mount Vernon, secretary. The next meeting will be at Davenport in September, 1887.

Gave Him the Royal Grand Snub. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 25.—The revenue commission refused Thursday to hear Dr. Miller, of Chicago, when the state board of equalization recently announced as a blackmailer. Mr. Crandall, of the commission, said he had no objection to hearing reputable people, but he would not listen to a blackmailer. The doctor was present but made no reply.

Dr. Hamilton Will Stay. WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—It is understood that the president has decided not to make a change in the office of surgeon general of the marine hospital service, and accordingly will not accept Dr. Hamilton's resignation.

PASSED THE RESOLUTION.

The Bankers' Convention Resolved Against Silver—Adjustment.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—The first business in order before the convention of bankers Thursday was the resolution against the coinage of silver. There was some attempt to amend it, but the attempt failed, and it was adopted by a large majority, but five or six votes being cast against it. The resolution reads:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that the coinage of silver dollars under the compulsory law of 1878 is detrimental to the best interests of the people and dangerous to the welfare of the government, and that the law should be immediately suspended, and remain inoperative until an international agreement with leading commercial nations shall give substantial assurance as to the future relation of gold and silver as money.

Officers were then elected, Mr. Lyman J. Gage being again selected for president. A communication from the St. Paul Railroad company offering a free trip to Minneapolis to members and their wives, was read. Heavy applause followed the reading. Col. Nelson, of Alabama, read a paper on the prevention of risks in collections, and offered a resolution that the limit of the liability of the receiving bank be the same as any other receiving agent, and that a proper commission be charged for such collection. He offered a resolution that the convention adopt this rule, which was done. An address, written by N. P. Brown, of Philadelphia, upon defalcations and the means of preventing losses to banks therefrom, was read by Mr. Brown. Professor Albert S. Dohles, of the University of Pennsylvania, read a long paper on some of the best methods of protecting fiduciary institutions and banks from losses through defalcating officers. The Hon. Clinton McCleary, of Louisville, read a paper on credit. A resolution was adopted recommending clearing houses to adopt a rule whereby a statement of the amount of paper of any individual or firm held by them may be obtained to prevent serious losses by bankers on discounted paper. It was sent to the executive committee. A resolution was adopted asking the executive committee to take steps by memorial or otherwise to procure amendments to the extradition treaties now in force, to secure the return of bankers who were exiles from justice. C. C. Bonney, of Chicago, read a paper favoring a change in our extradition treaties. A large number of papers were ordered to be printed with the proceedings which time prevented from being read. The fixing of the place of meeting for the next annual convention was deferred to some future meeting. After a vote of thanks had been tendered the railroad men, the press and the different speakers the convention adjourned.
